

TAKE BACK OUR ROADS: HOW TO SURVIVE ON OUR STREETS AND HIGHWAYS

TAKE BACK OUR ROADS

*How To Survive
On Our Streets and Highways*

By Marv Berkowitz

This “play book” is an excellent read, complete with many website resources. Marv highlights commonsense details that we all are, or should be, aware of. Seeing them in print really drives them home (pun intended).

There is a large group of sponsors committed to educating new and younger drivers, along with seasoned road veterans. Some of these sponsors must charge for their efforts, but many do not, so there is no excuse not to bring this much needed awareness to all who share the road.

With the abundance of new drivers taking to our roadways daily, the information in this easy-to-read guide should be mandatory to demonstrate the seriousness of the privilege of driving.

As Marv details, compared with other parts of the world, the United States is very generous about issuing the wonderful necessity of a driver’s license. This is not to say that all concerned issues reside only with younger drivers, there are also many concerns with senior drivers as well. The highlights Marv touches on can be hardly noticeable until they become all too real, sometimes with disastrous results.

Please obtain a copy of this wonderful guide and use its listed resources as an educational tool and, possibly, a life saving guide to happy and safe motoring. •
